“ I will always remember Chris's infectious laughs and smile. We enjoyed many adventures together growing up together in Lake Conway. Climbing the big rock, playing football at the beach, swimming, walks around the neighborhood, exploring the woods, fishing, and sitting on the picnic table telling jokes and stories with the other lake Conway kids. We all had so much fun together. One of my favorite memories of Chris was when we were older. I was visiting my parents in Lake Conway and took a walk and saw Chris at the beach fishing with his 2 older sons. They were very young. I walked over to say hi. I remember thinking how much they looked like him. He was helping them pull in the little sunnys that hang out along the shore of the beach and the boys were so excited. I remember thinking about how patient and gentle he was with them. He was so proud of his children. The few times our paths crossed as adults he would beam with pride when speaking of them. My heart goes out to his children, family and friends. I will continue praying for God to comfort you. He will be missed by all that knew him.

“ Chris, you were always such a beacon of bright light. I remember our lively jokes during our middle school and high school years. You never had a bad day, and always gave us a reason to laugh. I have no doubt that you bestowed your charm to your wonderful children. I know whole heartedly that you will watch over them, so that they will be every bit of the person that you were. Rest well, my old friend. We will see each other again.

“ My favorite memory of Chris growing up in the Lake Conway community is of him at the bus stop when he was in first grade. He would let everyone on the bus before him, and always helped my daughter, Lorretta, who was his classmate on to the bus. He was so adorable. Over the years I saw him growing up, and he was always respectful during his teen years. Unfortunately, our paths haven't crossed since he was in mid high school. My prayers are for his children, family and friends.
