“ Our deepest condolences to the Williams family. Rest in peace Kevin.
Although we only met you and your wonderful family this September school year, it was great to have met you and your family. You were such a great help at the school and with the camping trip . Rest easy and have that cup of real percolated coffee up there in the heavens. You will never be forgotten.

“ Kevin was a big softy, just the sweetest guy you ever met. He made everyone feel so special and valued. He was always happy to see me and would ask how my family is doing. I will always remember his soft blue eyes and warm smile. Sending love and prayers to his whole family.

“ Kevin was bigger than life. He always had a kind word and a smile on his face. Although I haven't seen him in years, the last time I saw him it's like we just saw each other yesterday. When I saw his passing my heart sunk. It sank for me, and his family. There are few people in life that stand out so boldly. Kevin was one of them for me.

God bless you Kevin.....and God Speed

“ I knew Kevin since his freshman year in high school - a very big boy who came out for the wrestling team. Kevin became larger than life - literally. His athletic prowess on the mat was only matched by the size of his heart. Kevin parked cars at Gary's & my wedding. He was at our baby showers. My daughter learned to walk holding on to Jed (one of his beloved German Shepards.) There was nothing Kevin wouldn't do for a friend. He (with the help of Gary, Gabbi, Dougie & Jimmy) helped to tear down a building for me on my property so that I could get my mortgage, with the adage "work smarter, not harder." When you needed help - Kevin was there.

There was never a better storyteller than Kevin. His inflection, his facial expressions, and story content was always enough to leave you in stitches. "Phulumpus", a nickname from the High Point 'Rasslin days, and how it still reads in my phone contacts, was a caring, funny, loving friend to me and so many countless others and held the same characteristics as the son of Carol and Roy, brother to Michele, uncle to his nephews, father of his boys, and husband of Sharon. Kevin and his family are more than friends to me and my family - they became part of my family.

They say that only the good die young and that God takes those that he needs for a higher purpose. I still can't wrap my head around the reason why he's gone, but I do know that he is more than likely holding court, telling 'rasslin and Kevin stories with Peter and looking over everyone of us. He'll be one hell of a guardian angel for sure. I miss you already Kev - love ya buddy and thanks for 35 years of friendship.

“ This tragic event will be felt alt through the High Point wrestling family. I'm sure it will start teammates and opponents remembering their favorite Kevin (Phulumpus) moment of which there are many. It is fair to say that Kevin had an impact on everyone who met him. We all have a Kevin Williams story. He was a six foot five inch three hundred pound gentle giant with the ability to terrify opponents when needed. He was also a kind and thoughtful person who cared about his friends and team. Kevin made a lasting impact on High Point Wrestling. During his senior year he went on reign of terror where he pinned almost everyone he wrestled. The only grapplers who dodged his slam fest were the ones who coaches refused to put on the mat to face him and one lucky wrestler who upset Kevin in the semi-finals of the state tournament. Although he was physically awe inspiring he was a polite, well mannered and highly intelligent person off the mat. I will say though, Kevin was a man of many controversial opinions and beliefs which he was never shy in defending of discussing. He lived life by his own rules and had no problem charting his own path. Kevin was unique individual and gave more than he took. It is a terrible loss but our memories of Kevin are warm.

“ Dear family, our sincerest condolences to you all for the loss of Kevin. I remember him growing up as I spent some of my happiest times in your home, with Carol, running after the 2 Michael's. Later Kevin got a puppy from us and gave him a wonderful home. We pray for sweet memories to help all of you through this very sad time. God bless Kevin. You are all in our thoughts and prayers.
