“ Wow it's amazing how similar we are. I feel each painful emotion and tear that falls, losing a parent that has always been there for you and with you thru your entire life is difficult. I understand your pain, it's a wound that will mend but never heal. Just remember, your Father will always be with you in spirit, always watching over your family and shining his light from the Heavens. Mildred I too was daddy's little girl so if you need a shoulder, I'm here for you. My sincere condolences to all from the Millan family.

“ My grandpa was the epitome of quiet and stoic strength. His spirit will always be the pillar that held up our world. It will forever carry a legacy of loyalty, faith, family , and love.

He was, and always will be, a great man who lived and loved honestly and fiercely. Never will you meet a man who more faithfully lived his values.

He was proud of his children and beamed in the presence of his grandchildren. Always quick with a joke, or a sly smile, his raspy voice and laugh could fill a room. He was filled to brim with knowledge. Always willing to get his hands dirty and yours as well, he took pride in everything he did.

He loved his wife more than anything else in the world. 62 years of unrelenting faith an adoration. The kind of love poets long for in their verses. If only we could all be so lucky.

Grandpa, the words I have to sing your praise are infinite. I'll forever remember you as ridiculously strong, funny, and sweet. I'd give anything for another bear hug by the fire and to smell the coffee and smoke on your beard when you kissed my cheek. Thank you for everything you've given us – this life, your legacy, my nose. We will all carry you with us forever and in doing so you'll never truly be gone. I love you.

Always,

Alexis

“Dad,
I had hoped we had more time to spend together, however, I will never forget the times we did have.
I look back and remember a childhood of love that you showed me and I felt that love all through my life into my adulthood and the loving looks we shared as I cared for you during your illness knowing time was shorter than we wanted it to be.
I remember countless trips to Atlantic City for swimming and walking on the boardwalk, drives to Bear Mountain State Park to swim in the creek in the summer and ice skate in the winter, endless visits to Shepard Lake to swim and barbecue and so my love for the water and nature I owe to you.
Whenever I smell the scent of cut grass I remember car rides out to City Island and seeing the water sparkling with the sun and the tall grass reeds swaying in the breeze.
I also learned how to navigate the highways thanks to you and our many family journeys to NY crossing over the bridges and going through the tunnels.
I also think of the many White Castle and McDonalds visits after our family adventures. Even the one time you got pulled over because we made you drive the shoulder because we were hungry and there was so much traffic.
From you dad I learned to appreciate the small things in life and my affinity for nice cars and how to fix them and to fix things that broke around the house. You didn't always have the money for someone to come and fix it so you tried your hand at it and used your common sense and skills and fixed it. Maybe that's why I'm good at my work because I will try to find a way to fix a problem by using my common sense and skills.
I remember you were always doing something around the house and you always let us help you even though I'm sure we were in the way.

Your gardening skills were green-thumb worthy and it seemed that whatever you touched blossomed.

I remember all the times we went to play ball in the park and you would hit the balls to us and especially the time Millie took the ball to the eye after yelling 'I got it' and she didn't quite have it. Our love for baseball came from you dad and mom cheering on the Mets than switching to the Yankees.

I can remember those muscles in your neck and shoulders and arms that were ripped from your hard-labor job as a mechanic and when I see my son Chris I will always see you dad. Also when I see my brothers and sisters I will see you dad in their eyes, their smile and their hard working drive.

I know that the trips you took to Puerto Rico made you the happiest and I saw it in your smiles and pure joy of just being there as that was your native homeland. I wished we had just one more trip there but I know in Heaven it's just like being there. I want to thank you for the joy, the smiles of happiness and the kisses you gave so freely to us and especially to my daughters who you always had a warm smile for and a loving kiss. They will never forget them.

I will never forget the forehead kisses and the blessings I gave you each night hoping you had a restful night and I thank the Lord that He gave me the gift of nursing to be able to help you through your time of need and I would not have missed it for the world. I had only hoped that you knew I did the best I could for you and I would do it again in a heartbeat.

Dad you will always be my papi and my viejito,

I'll carry you in my heart and soul and miss you everyday. But I know that as God promised us we will see each other again in heaven. Watch over us and protect us and know you were the best daddy a girl could ever have.

Till we meet again in heaven may you rest peacefully in the Lords arms.

Your loving daughter,

Margaret

“ My Father, My Hero
My father was strong and brave to the very end! My father was generous, honest and kind and always there for his family and friends through good and bad times. He taught us that hard work pays off. Equally, all his five children inherited this attribute. As I sit alone in my immense grief and an unstoppable flow of tears, I wonder if we ever thanked him enough for the sacrifices our father made for us and lessons he taught us. I only wish our dad had taught us how to live without him....My father, I will miss the twinkle in your brown eyes and your beautiful, beautiful Mona Lisa smile. If I ever broke your heart— and brought worry and tears to your angel eyes, you had never let me know. You loved and accepted me for who I was... no matter my oversights. Don't ever forget me, my father! My heart and soul could not bear that... My father, forever keep us in your heart and watch over us. We still need your love and light to guide our paths and during the dark days ahead without you. Until we meet again, so we can walk beside you once more. How I miss you my dear father! I knew you were tired, but being a selfless daughter, I did not want to see you go and separated from you. If you only knew how I prayed for a miracle for you or wish to turn back the clock when we all smile and enjoyed being with you. I know you are in a better place and in peace and no longer suffering. It was a long road and fight for you and your loved ones. I'm my father's first born and still his little girl. When a toddler, mom told me when you would come home for lunch and ready to return to work, I held on tight to your legs. Once falling down the marble steps, because I would not let go of you. Even then, I did not want to let go. My love for you so long ago must have been profound. I also, remember the first doll you brought me, Thumbelina... you and mom had thought you placed her in a high place, but unbeknownst to you and mom, I would climb on the bed and rail to reach the top of the dresser cabinet and slowly open the box to peek at my Christmas doll. I remember the first album you brought me Memories live forever. I will deeply miss taking you to Dunkin Donuts for coffee and coffee cake muffin (hoping our favorite chairs were unoccupied, so we could sit by the window and feel the warmth of the sun, while we drank our coffee with mom). Then afterwards, we all walked to the lottery place to buy few lottery tickets; how that made you happy and brought a smile on your face! Especially mine. You gave us so many, many wonderful memories throughout the years – it is impossible to write all, but we will keep them in our hearts and alive when we remember or talk about them to each other. My father, please know I'll always welcome the morning and the sunset with you always. I will miss those long drives to the Poconos to see you and mom. I will also miss watching you feed the deer's and wild turkeys. And seeing you bird watching or just relaxing on the porch or deck beholding the blue sky and trees around us, especially when the seasons change (when leaves are budding, falling, and branches are balancing snow or ice). Even the wild flowers will also miss your watch and caring. My father, when I feel a gentle breeze, wind, rain, or snow on my face, I'll think of you and feel the warmth of your loving hands (which held me as a baby, toddler, terrible teens, and adult). Dad, I still plan to talk to you every day... please listen to me from Heaven. And when I am having a difficult day, I will ask you to give me patience and strength, along with forgiveness for those who break my heart from time to time or give me difficult time. Lastly, when I can't find sleep or peace, I can now tell you my secrets or uncertainties. I know I will feel your spirit with me always. I love you my dear father. Thank you for being my dad and the best dad ever. I will promise to be brave and take care of mom, this is not yet goodbye! Your loving daughter, Mildred Conde

“ I will always remember the good times we spent as a family. The long road trips in your truck, your love for nature, sharing stories with us and your ability to always make us smile and laugh. The love you had for the family was immeasurable and the memories I have with you will forever be in my heart. May you be at peace and find comfort in knowing the legacy you have left behind and how we all carry a bit of your spirit with us each day.

“ Vroom, vroom! 5/8, 3/4, get me an allen wrench! Thank you my handsome Papi for my passion with cars . Glad to have been your side kick mechanic. You were the first man I loved. Thank you for shaping me into the woman I am! Will miss our morning coffee talks and your insatiable quest to keep Patric from crashing the go-cart you made him! Papi don't forget how Sebastian held your hand not so long ago and made you smile! We adore you and will miss you. May you Rest In Peace and tranquility always. Te amo Papi
