“ Oh where to begin... I met Larry 12 years ago in the summer of 2009. I didn't know then upon meeting him, just how much he would mean to me today. Pop was the kind of guy who was a hard working man yet very down to earth. I remember getting yelled at for kissing Cory in his house, and even though We will be married 10 years this November, I was still squeamish about kissing Cory in front of him again. The day of our wedding, I begged Pop to wear a suit because we were having pictures taken and he was the father of the groom. He eventually caved in and wore it. At the last moment he realized he couldn't find his dress shoes. So he wore the next best thing, his white sneakers. There he is standing proud next to Cory grinning ear to ear in a gray pin stripe suit with bright white sneakers 🐾 but that's who he wasabi I loved him even more for that!! ❤️❤️ ❤️ I never got a chance to ask him if it embarrassed him. He was a humble man. I remember when Pop first started to get sick with the COPD. He struggled to cope with not being able to do things he loved to do like working or hunting. Even though he was sad he still always managed to laugh about the silliest of things. If you knew the Pop that we did, his laugh was infectious!! That's what I'm going to miss the most about you My Popparoni ❤️ I was blessed to marry into this family and to have you as my second father. I love Pop and I miss you so much already but I will never forget you!! 🥺 Thank you for being there for Cory and I and thank you for accepting me for who I am. Rest Easy now Pop and please give Sophia all my love, she's your pup now xoxo

OMG...so very sad to read of Larry's passing. My heart and prayers go out to all the family. I was married to Larry's "Uncle Willy". Just want you to know "The greatest treasure is, was and always will be is family! We may not be perfect , but we love them with all our heart". Sending love, hugs and may you find comfort in the days ahead of all the fond memories we shared in Larry's life. Rest in peace Larry and know you are not alone up there in heaven. God Bless.
