“ I worked with him in the same account and same company, highly technical and open and listen to everyone, hear their ideas and provide feedback. Such a simple person and always surprised with his knowledge.

“ I had the pleasure of working with Mike many times over our years at IBM. The folks at IBM and our customers know their great loss but I wanted to share with Bobby Jo and his family how well thought of Mike was here. He was so smart and talented in so many areas and he was always so kind to share that talent and knowledge with those who asked. He will be missed. God bless and RIP "Mike O".

“ I had the pleasure of meeting Mike back in Boston almost 12 years ago worked on many projects with him. Mike was very enthusiastic about technology. He always was positive. Where others were stressed about coming up with solutions to problems Mike seem to relish the challenge and share in the joy of coming up with a solution. He was very gracious, gave advice and he was mentor to many of us who worked with him. When I joined IBM over 25 years ago I always thought that I would be working with the smartest people in the world. Mike was a shining example of that. He will be missed by many. My condolences to his family and friends.

“ I am shocked by this news. My heartfelt condolences to the immediate family and friends who have known Mike. I worked closely with Mike both in IBM and now Kyndryl for the past 10 years. Over this time from being a colleague he became a good friend. He was an amazing and kind person and very happy to work with. He had so much knowledge to share it was an amazing experience working closely with him. Mike will be surely missed by all of us at Kyndryl. May his soul rest in peace. - Raghu Srinivasan, Chicago, IL.

“ I only met Mike briefly at Kyndryl but was so impressed with his brilliance and generosity of spirit. He shared with me some amazing work he had done that inspired me to bring him in as a trusted advisor to my team. His creativity encouraged the team to think big and his influence will be a voice on our shoulder as we develop some exciting things. His loss will be felt and I feel blessed to have crossed paths with him. I am sending you all light and love.

“ Stunned by this awful news. Heartfelt condolences to friends and family who will feel the loss of such a wonderful person far more than I. I worked with Mike on and off for a while, saw his work and was delighted to see him appointed as a Distinguished Engineer. For those outside the world of technical nerdiness it’s a noteworthy recognition of technical brilliance, leadership and an ability to make a difference. I was delighted because I believed his appointment was so well deserved. Recently I worked more closely with Mike and my recollections were fully ratified. He was a delight to work with. He was calm, understanding of my incompetence in his area of expertise, kindly, a true gentleman and a brilliant problem solver. Mike will be sorely missed.

“ I started working with Michael earlier this year on a project. As a project manager, I am not very technical and I can identify Mike's brilliance in two ways, one he, so easily, took complex subjects and explained them to me so I understood them and two, he was someone whose work I had complete confidence in. Michael was able to take a technology that was new to him and develop solutions that made and will continue to make life easier and the business more effective for so many. Mike was also the nicest person. It isn't easy to become a Distinguished Engineer, but Mike was so humble and down to earth. I am shocked and saddened by his loss. Kyndryl and the technical world have lost a brilliant mind and a wonderful person. My condolences to his family. He is missed. He won't be forgotten.

“ I am so sorry for your loss & so very sad about Mike. I worked with Mike for many years at IBM. I would always joke with Mike that he was the smartest person I knew irl ! I once asked Mike what he liked to do in his spare time & he replied "code"! He loved technology & was always on the cutting edge of IT. But most importantly, Mike was one of the kindest people I had ever met. If you called Mike for help, he always made time for you. If you were stressed out over something work-related, his measured voice would calm you. He was also so so funny in his own quiet way. He will be missed ... by me & I know by so many others at IBM/kyndryl.

“ I recently joined Kyndryl and worked with Michael on a project. His desire to move the project forward, even while using technologies brand new to him, was very inspiring to me but more importantly, his humbleness and kindness was what really made my brief experience with him most memorable.

I'm very sorry for your loss. He was a really good guy.
