“ QVC is far the best! when you go to the sight which you have been on type in flameless calnedts timer but make sure you are buying the brand name candle impressions. just be patient everytime they run that on QVC they sell out happened to me but i waited and bought 5 sets of the tall ivory embossed for my mom for christmas we put them in every window of her house they were beautiful and will stay up all year. when i got home after the holidays i bought sets pricy i know, but i will tell you the look you get from them is worth every penny you pay and the battery life is 700 hours. they come on at 7 and turn off automatically at 12. i just got the two wall sconces with the white calnedts that look melted and am waiting for them to come. they will be back in stock in about 2 weeks if you can wait. If you buy any other brand other then candle impressions they will not be good the battery life is bad. I hope you can wait and get the best~
