“ Sending all our love to Billy's Family and Friends at this time.

Bill,
Our memories of you are some of the greatest times in our lives and wouldn't have come close without you there. From back in the day with you guys jumping off the trailer onto the trampoline at 10pm. Man, that used to drive Heather nuts and she'd always make me go out and tell you guys to stop only for me to end up jumping off with you guys. That was back during the "Wayne Wayne Wayne" days. Most recently of course was the Tennessee trip. That was the best. The skanky hot-tub water; that corned beef that I forgot about on the grill until you reminded me then compared it to shoe leather but still ate it; St. Patrick's Day with the fire alarms going off and fire department showing up and we tipped them a gallon of milk! The left right center games and sometimes just relaxing and having laughs. Even more recently was last summer on the river; BBQ at Joe's and the Escape room. I still think if not for you, Melissa and Heather figuring everything out we'd still be stuck in that room. I close my eyes and see your face as clear as day and hear your voice in my head like you're in the room with us. For that reason I can smile because I know as long as I can still see you and hear you, you'll never be gone. We love you so much Billy! Always and forever, Love Wayne and Heather.

“ We all go through life thinking we have time. Billy was my best friend growing up, his family was my family. I spend damn near every day with him; sleepovers, riding dirt bikes, going hiking, basketball, boy scouts, Nintendo, air guitar rockin' to Motley Crew and Skid Row, peeing for distance contests off the side of his deck (the crazy things we remember), the time Kevin threw a rock and it hit his eye and bled all over his new yellow shirt, watching evil knievel and monster truck videos. Billy and Missy were the best friends I ever had. When my parents divorced and i moved away we lost touch for nearly 20 years. We finally reunited again and it was just like old times. I wish we had kept in touch better. Life gets in the way of what's really important; our friends and family. I will always love you brother
